ENVIRONMENT

Tabamo, Jeannibel L.
School of Allied Medicine
Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Philippines

There was a time when people thought of the environment, they thought of its beauty; but now as the natural beauty of the earth that disappears, many people around the world have awoken to the realities of just how fragile our earth actually is. Central to this issue is pollution, which involves the introduction of harmful substances into the air, land, and water.

Environment is one of our resources in life, the air that we breath, the land that were stepping, the threes that we build as a house, the water that we drink it all came from our environment.

So we people as a user in this environment we should take care of it, as you can see we suffer in a different climate, a environmental tragedy but it’s not just we who suffer but also our environment.

We can do so many things to help and make our environment more beautiful, cleaner, and stronger. Replanting threes, separating bio and non bio degradable this are just some of the things that we can do.

Give a chance to the future children to see the beauty and wonders of our environment.