Article Title : A Land in Need

A Land in Need

As the civilization keep on thriving in the western world, people have more and more medical cares and social welfares. There are seemly endless resources for us, however, things aren't the same for the most of the people in the rest of the world.

I have a faith in that humans are created equal. Which is to say, although we enjoy our life of plentiness, still we have to concern about the people who are lack of many things. I was born in a wealthy family, both of my parents received high educations and have a relatively high salary job. I used to think that all the families are as same as us. Not until one day, my parents took me to a kid's wonderland, a beggar was sleeping beside the entrance. I was shocked by the scene I had just witnessed. "How can a person live in this way?", I ask to myself. Later on, I started noticing that there are indeed many people who lead a miserable life. Things shouldn't be in this way. We need to do something to change the world.

There is a popular song which touch my heart: Michael Jackson's "Man in the mirror". If we want to make this world a better place, then we'll have to change ourselves first. Reduce the waste could be one practical way. If we can save more items and transfer them to the people in need, that will be a remarkable breakthrough in ourselves. The other way is to be sensitive to human right issues on TV and internet. We may not be able to donate a fund like Bill Gates did, but we can still pay our attention to these issues.

Martin Luther Jr. King said:" I say to you today, my friends, so even though we face the difficulties of today and tomorrow, I still have a dream. It is a dream deeply rooted in the American dream.” This can be applied to the situations we faced today. I also have a dream, a dream that the level of human right can be raised again. Being Raised to a new level that we can never imagine. Organizations of human right are pervasive nowadays. If we really want to do something, we can just go on to internet and make that change. We need actions.

Life will pay whatever price you ask of it. And I believe in that. If we start to change ourselves, anything will be possible. We can make the world better, and we can improve the human right conditions. We don't have to own much money or power to achieve the goal. The giant lies within our minds.

It is such an honorable thing to write an essay for human right. If my words would under any circumstances be helpful, that will be the most delightful moment in my life. The journey is long, against all the obstacles, humans have to fight. Fighting for equality, for human rights, for our offspring and for love. God bless.
