FEAR FOR OUR CHILDREN

Everything that is happening around us makes us think and fear for our children. It seems that the world is becoming wicker and wicker. Moralty issues are everywhere. From homosexuality to abortion, kidnapping, extortion, graft and corruption, etc.People just cant get enough of life and they are not satisfied withanything.Maybe its called human nature but in reality, everybody and everything is suffering.Our planet, our environment, our friends, our families and mostof all our children. What will happen 10 years from now? Are we at peace to leave our children behindafter we go to the next life?Children not even teenagers yet are so materialistic. Teenagers not even adults are into abortion, pre marital sex and drugs. If only we can do something about it to change the world. Maybe just maybe,we can start with our ownfamilyby educatingthem with good sense of values (if there is any left). Maybe somehow they will carry thesevalues to their school, environment and eventually to the world they livein. Let us show themthrough little ways by practicing these values in our way of life so they will learn from it not only hearing it from us like a preacher. I know its sounds impossible to change the world but its worth a try.
