

I believe that every human deserves rights and deserves respect. It is not fair when one person receives more privileges than another. Even today, there are racism and sexism in the world, disrupting the peace. If everybody worked toward world peace, the world would be a better place since there is more love in the world. Also, people need to protect the environment because it is slowly deteriorating. We can make the world better if everyone did their part in cleaning up after themselves and conserve resources.
