

Human Rights

I believe human rights are important for a successful country. Without it, a country will turn into chaos like Darfur. When people feel dominate, they tend to look down on others and push them around.