

Environmental Protection

Protecting the world and our environment is important because each day earth continues to heat up due to global warming. We can protect our environment by recycling, using solar panels, and conserving natural resources. It's also important that you don't litter because it can be dangerous for the animals that live in the area. If animals also get sick, then they face the possibility of extinction.