

A Letter from Earth

Ranie G. Sumicad

BS Radiologic Technology
School of Allied Medicine
Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Philippines

What if Earth sends us a letter? What will she say? Let me read it to us human what does Mother Earth want to say.

Dear human beings, when God created me I was so happy. I am very beautiful and where ever you go there is beauty. Birds flew over lush forests and tall mountains. The fishes swim though the prestige river. When you arrived, I was excited on what you have instore for the both of us in the future. I loved you and gave you everything you needed. But as the years pass by I grew ill from your misbehaving acts. I made natural calamities to scold you just like a mother scolds her son. Every year you change, and every year I grew ill. I am dying because you have depleted my resources. You have ignored my warnings and have paid the price. But you never understand. I have provided you with everything you need but you want more. I have loved you from the start and disciplined you but you keep destroying me for the thing that I've done. When will you learn? There are no other planets that will take care of you. In fact I come to understand that humans are like virus they multiply and destroy. If only you were like the other creatures, well ordered and not greedy. I should have known for a long time that you have just used me. But I am still waiting for you to change for the better and for us to be together. From: Mother Earth.

Are we still going to waste what little is left from Earth? When will we change? Have you done anything to help her or are you just another parasite that makes her ill. We need the Earth more than she needs us. In fact she is better off without us. We have to love her because there is none else better other than mother earth.