

EXTRAJUDICIAL KILLING

Jhordan P. Book

School of Criminal Justice
Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Philippines

Sometimes on our generation, there are individuals who are rude and evil. People who are naïve comes to be victims of these tragedies, men and women, regardless of age and race. People with the authority seems to set aside these problems of our country and even worst, government authorities come to be involved in these kind of outrage. Community suffers. Many of us die without reasons and sometimes being innocent is the main reason why people die.

Scenes on our history flash back all the lapses and misdeeds of our ancestors and until now extrajudicial killing is rampant. Perhaps, it is worst during this time. Most recent news about this is the Maguindanao massacre which is constituted to have more or less fifty victims and until now justice for that tragedy is conspicuously blurred. It is apparent that even though the perpetrator of that massacre is eventually held in custody by the proper authority, still until now relatives of the victims have not yet acquired even a quarter of justice that they want to have.

Another which is that current tells about the latest information regarding some unusual incidents that can be constituted to extrajudicial killings.

What is with those people who commit this kind of inhumane crime? Are they not contented of their lives? This kind of crime is very unjust not only to humanity but most of all to our Almighty God. And we as constituents must have the solution to this outrage. The government should have their solution to this problem and they must set aside their selfish intent in gaining above another and rather exercise truthfulness and enact what is written in the constitution.

Laws are made to secure and regulate actions of its particular constituents. Hence, according to our constitution, each and every person must have their individual right that is vested by it. And therefore, it is practiced. In the situation of extrajudicial killing, it is apparently noticed that laws are mere laws written on a piece of paper and will not move laws written on a piece of paper and will not move unless it is being moved.

Importantly, the main reason why these laws are not practiced accordingly because of selfish reasons of the government officials who carry out these laws. And until this very time, it is still impregnated into the minds of the people “Do we have Justice?”.