We all know that our mother earth is not in its normal condition. We are now aware of all those problems that we are experiencing now. Too much pollution and abuses to our nature are the most common ways of destroying the earth.

There are so many ways to save the earth. Everything that people do, eating, watering lawns, heating the house and driving cars require resources to produce. Yes it is a part of our daily lives and habit but let us just be conscious of all the small decisions we make to decrease the total human impact on the planet. Better choose to have fewer children. Too much children in a family gives pressure on earth's resources by it ever increasing human population and is one of the direst issues that the planet faces. Also, let us be aware of the decreasing numbers of species that helps support Earth's balance. Support international agreement to limit the output of greenhouse gases. Reduce our own energy as much as possible. Let us be environmental friendly.

It's not yet too late to save our earth. So if you want to save your life, save earth first and so before it's too late, let's move and start to give our care and help cure the disease that our earth is experiencing now.
