Human rights refer to the right of human or what we called “Karapatang Pantao”. Each individual has their rights. We have the freedom to speak out of what we want to express, what we feel towards among others. We have freedom to love, the right to choose for what we feel and think the best for us. We have the right to live peacefully here in the world. These are just some example of human rights. Human rights are also compared to justice. Because when we say justice it refers for our freedom. Everyone is free, soaring high like an eagle.

What I observed now is that human rights disintegrating little by little. People who are at the top believe that money and position have the power to do everything. Wherein it deeply and greatly affect the life of people in our society. There are cases like rich people will hire gunman to kill someone. No one can take away anyone’s life.
