Human rights are natural rights and freedoms of every citizen. These rights and freedoms may protect each individual from harm, but sadly there are some people who really violate and abuse other people. Most of the times these people are with authority, have power in the society, and they use their power to abuse other people. It is a sad reality that there are people doing such things, using other people's weaknesses for their own gain. In our country there are so many crimes and injustices happening.
