If we talk about Filipinos, they are respectful, hospitable, hardworking, and have faith in God. These values are taught by their parents. Filipinos are known for their being hospitable. Filipinos are very hardworking in a way that they do anything for their family. The most important is that Filipinos are God-fearing people. God is their inspiration.

But nowadays, Filipinos are not the same as before. Some of the Filipinos abuse the rights of others. Usually people with high position in the society are the ones abusing. Especially politicians they can do anything to get what they want as long they are in position, they think they are powerful. They are the ones breaking the law and violating human rights.
