Human Rights make certain that every individual is assured of rights and freedoms. This rights and freedoms are given freely. When you were born you are automatically have your rights and freedoms. We are entitled to every right and freedom in the world.

But this rights and freedom are being violated by other people. These are taken away from people who are generally weak in a society. When I say weak, it means that they don't have power in the society. They are people who belong to poverty, women and children. They are the ones usually being abused in our society.
