

HUMAN RIGHTS

Asiddin, Aldrin A.
BS Criminology
Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Zamboanga

Human rights are rights of every person, given to each individual as being a human. These are freedoms in one's person life. The freedom to choose, to have the freedom to vote, freedom to live freely, and freedom to have a peaceful life; these are some freedoms that we are experiencing now in our life.

What I observed nowadays, is that human rights seem hard to find. Corruption in our government is rampant. We can't move on or development is hindered because of the corruption in our country. Children cannot go to school because they don't have enough money for them to study. Others are selling their votes to politicians who are hungry for power. These are some scenarios that I see in our country.