

Human Rights
Batulan, Ralph R.
Universidad de Zamboanga

Human rights is a law of all human being. All people have their human rights example if you were abuse or assault you have a human rights to file a case or put the person who abuse you in the bars.

But before you do that you must have also a proof that the people abuse you. One example too a hard working jeepney drivers that working a whole day to find money to buy food for his family, but there are some of traffic enforcers are abused. Because some of them are “kotong” or just get money to the jeepney drivers that’s why we have a human rights to complain it in supreme court.