

HUMAN RIGHTS

Julkanain, Ibrahim
BS Criminology
Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Philippines

Human rights, under the law have its own popular meaning, but for me, my own reflection, knowing that I am human, I have my rights. It is the way of knowing what we suppose to do, what we are achieving for, and what we are looking for.

Everyone has their rights; physical aspect, mental and emotional aspects in life. Generally, human rights have limitations. Meaning you are in constant. You cannot go beyond the law. And yet you have the right to move, to choose whatever you want.