Every person has their own human rights. In our country we should know and practice our rights. Because there are people who are abusing others for their own benefits.

Human rights are rights of the people that they can fight for it. Because that is their own and given to them freely. And they can defend their rights to those people who accuse them. If you are on the right, then fight, don't be scared. It's your right. If you know your rights, you can easily gain trust from other people.
