

Human Rights
Posadas. Renier B.
Criminology
Universidad de Zamboanga

Human rights are rights and freedom to which all human are entitled

Proponents of the concepts usually assert that every one is enclosed with certain entitlements merely by reason of being human.

Human rights are the conceived in a universalism and ebullition fashion such entitlements can exist as shared norm of actual human moralities as justified moral norms or natural rights supported by strong reason or a legal rights either at a national level or within international law.