

HUMAN RIGHTS

Salarda, Rhema B.
BS Criminology
Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Philippines

Human rights talk about the rights and freedom of a person. You have the freedom to choose what you want to be, we have the rights to express our ideas or to show our feelings and to explore our knowledge for the sake of our rights. There are many types of human rights base from observation. One of this is the rights to have an education. The children have the rights to be an educated person. There are some wants to go to school but unfortunately they could not due to financial incapacity. At a young age they are already working, for them to be able to have something to eat. Second the right to live. There are a lot of incidents and reports of abortion. Even babies that are still on the womb of their mother, they already have the right to live. Third is the right to have shelter, food, good health.