The parents should support their children
And must not abandon the children
The children with unemployed parents are forced to work
Their desired to study is not possible because of financial constraints

Without parents' support, children tend to be jealous of other children who are studying
And get more jealous because children in school got many friends

Children without parents' support envy others who are studying

The children no stop to crying because she is jealous of friends
Friends has friends are study but I jealous it was many friends

My mother she like my friends because my friends study
But I am really to help my mother it was happen their jealous my friend.
