As a civilian citizen of this country, police and military abuse is really happening in our society and it is not good. It is not their right to abuse civilians and usually it is physical abuse. The government should protect the every citizen they serve. Because of this, people don't have much trust on the police officers and military men. Until now there are still cases of police and military abuses being reported.

As law enforcers it is their duties and responsibilities to protect the people, not to harm them. And they should show that they can be trusted and always ready to help them when they are in need of them.
