

“The Human Rights”

By: Abdulpatta, Al-rashier A.
School of Criminology Justice
Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Philippines

The term human rights are generally defined as those rights inherent in the nature of every individual person without which man cannot live as a human being. The commission and human rights defined human rights as the supreme, inherent, inalienable right to life, to dignity and to self-development.

Human rights violation Pea Se are the following classified as Human Rights Violation Pea Se under commission a Human Rights circular no.001-88

1. Deprivation of life, liberty on property without due process of law (sec.1, act.III Bill of rights under the constitution)
2. Violation of the right to the equal protection of laws.
3. Violation of the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable search and seizure of whatever nature and for any purpose.
4. Commission of acts constituting illegal arrest and procurement of illegal search warrant.
5. The use of force, torture, violence, threats and other means that violate the freewill. (Sec.12 Art.III Bill of rights under the constitution).
6. Holding a person in a secret detention places, in solitary confinement, or in communicate or other forces of detention.
7. Employment of physical, psychological and degrading punishment against a prison or detainee.
8. Unexplained of force disappearance and extra-legal executers.

Human Rights are violated indifferent areas under any of the following Categories.

1. The constitutional areas
2. The statutory area, whether civil or criminal
3. Where one acts in defense of one rights
4. Conflict of interest and of motives.

The Constitutional Area human rights subject to the violation tall within the protecting ambit of Art.III of the 1987 Constitution of the Philippines entitled “ The bill of rights” which includes those found in other provisions.

The Statutory Are includes those provided under chapter 2, preliminary title of the new civil code of the Philippines entitled Human Relations the one hand, and those defined and punishment under book two of the revised penal code which include the following:

1. Those crimes against the fundamental laws of the states.
2. Those against chastity

Where one act in defense of his rights there are act which a person commits in defense of this rights; he thus, violates the rights of another as a consequence.

Conflict of interest, motives and disparity in the social and economic states of people.

Classification of human rights

1. Civil and Political Rights
 - The rights to life, liberty, security of person
 - Protection against torture and other forms of inhuman and degrading punishment.

- Protection against arbitrary arrest and detention
- Rights against slavery, force or compulsory labor.
- The rights to own property
- The right to leave and to return to one's country
- Human right in the administration of justice
- Freedom of thought, conscience and religion and belief
- Freedom of opinion and expression
- Freedom of association, including trade and union rights.
- The rights of every one to take part in the government

2. Economic. Social and cultural rights

- The right to work
- The right to education
- The right to health
- The right to adequate shelter and services
- The right to culture
- The right to development
- The right to a clean environment