

“The Human Rights”

By Ujajan, Ridzkhan A.
School of Criminology Justice
Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Philippines

Human rights are right and freedom to which all humans are entitled. Proponents of the concept could assert that every one is endowed with certain entitlement merely by reason of being human; human rights are thus conceived on a Universalist and egalitarian fashion. Such as entitlement can with as shared norms of actual human modalities, as satisfied moral norms or natural rights supported by reason as legal right either at a national level or within international law, how ever there is no preserve nature of what in particular should or should not be regarded as a human rights. In any of the proceeding senses. And human rights near of respecting and without a harm act to gain ourselves and these human rights in our country is a law, for does people abuses in the person authority.