Peace and human rights is what all Filipinos aiming for. If we have peace in our community of course the people will become happy and their lives will be harmonious. Implementing human rights in the country will surely give our countrymen a fully-sigh of contentment, for that thing there will no more slaves and the people living in a country will be equally treated.

With the help of human rights, those people who are unfortunate and poor can now express their feelings and shout out loud the rights that they are dreaming in almost of their lives. There will be no more war that we all afraid of in our country. Starting peace also starts building truthfulness in our country, because truth will set everyone's free.

Achieving peace must begin from every citizen of our country. Hence, today must be the beginning of the change. We might say that peace is just easy to acquire but it's actually not. It must first be understood that it is all people's concern; it is not only for the President nor to his officials but for all of us Filipinos.

We can't start peace with just smiling, laughing and others that is just a complement of happiness. We can do it by enhancing one's own ability to think and do what is best. Act with the rules and laws of our country. We can't achieve peace without human rights for the people would have its importance that will not do harmful activities if they don't have hatred in the country. Even if that certain problem is much big to handle like peace and right implementation of human rights we still can prove that we could make it for there is God above who is willing and waiting for you to call Him. With so much thing we could do we can have all that peace and human rights deep within if we in ourselves have that respect and love not just for your own, your love one's but to all or anybody around you and a certain society and country. In everything we do if we must put God in the center of us and in our lives, that peace and human rights is just easy to achieve.

Love your country so that you will no longer do bad and hazardous activities that might say so. Peace is easily achieved with the start to yourself, for you is the start of any changes. Let's start peace with love and care to everybody, because "PEACE IS NOT WAR".

Being a Filipino, we should be proud of, for Filipino's are the best of all. We all have those rights which are our rights and freedom to which all humans are entitled.
