When we talk about peace and human rights what comes to our mind? As we all know that in our generations nowadays is so crucial in talking about peace and human rights. As what I have heard in the other peoples reaction for them peace and human rights is only for the rich and wealthy people who have the power to put that person down and lose hope in his/her personal life, if he/she commits mistake without clear statement. Then I say if we want "Peace and human rights" this includes: insecurity, social justice, economic in quality, political and religion radicalism and acute racism and national. Peace has always been among humanity highest value, for some supreme consider "peace at any price" the midst disadvantageous peace is better than the most just war" that was ever waged"., these are simple words but yet hard to express, hard to differentiate and I find difficulty in defining. But as I look at my surrounding, I saw people freely do their things and freely to be what they really are. Then, I saw road sign, rules statement on sidewalk and people who follow a certain direction. Are those things what we called peace and human rights can be taken away at someone's whims? Every person is entitled to certain rights-simply by the fact that they are a human being Think about what happen in your surroundings. Things and activity are organized by the people and the law itself to attain and maintain peace and therefore they must established first the rights of human to determine the kind of peace and the level of peace that they must pursue. I can now define peace and human rights.

There is no peace if there is no human right, every people possesses a different characteristics which make them unique, an example is the different ethnic group. Peace values justice and pursues sustainable development, respects the integrity of cultures and the natural environment, and promotes a social order based on equal human rights, the human dignity of all person, and reverence for living creatures and life system. To bring about peace, person need to be educate d to value human solidarity, mutuality and justice, and to learn the skills that enable to then to renounce violence and take peace as a way of life.

Peace would generally mean a quiet and an act of being peaceful. In the community, this peace would show a well-organized society and well-mannered people that not only considering themselves as a special individual or they lack the attitude of pride but considering also others. A community is not only composed of one person but it is composed of groups of individuals that should work hand and hand for the community and the societies become function Many people find themselves in trouble with other because of their inability to control themselves, inability to stay calm amidst external pressure. Some people become easily confuse, fretful and violent when suddenly under pressure, then wonder afterwards why in the world they have harmed others and why they cannot seem to account for their reaction as a human being, one of our needs for our own self is to have a peace and human rights. As another basic needs in our lives

Peace describes a society or a relation that is operating harmoniously and without violent conflict. Peace is common understood as the absence of hostility, or the existence of health or newly healed interpersonal or international relationship; safely in matter of social or economic welfare, the acknowledgement of equality and fairness political relationship. In international relation, peacetime is the absence of any war or conflict. The study of peace also involves the cause for its absence or loss. These potential causes include: insecurity, social justice, economic in quality, political and religion radicalism and acute racism and national. Peace has always been among humanity highest value, for some supreme consider "peace at any price" the most disadvantageous peace is better than the most just war" that was ever waged".

There never was a good war or bad peace in human right from my personal views. The word peace is not only recognized by words but also by symbols. As of being a unique individual, we must set limitation exception and expectation of what one should and can do. By doing this, each one will respect others with regards of their self-image and develop their self-esteem and self-discipline to one another. We all should remember that the word peace should be valued and cherished by our mind, our heart, and our soul as a gifted and blessed individuals.

Many people find themselves in trouble with other because of their inability to control themselves, inability to stay calm amidst external pressure. Some people become easily confuse, fretful and violent when suddenly under pressure, then wonder afterwards why in the world they have harmed others and why they cannot seem to account for their reaction as a human being, one of our needs for our own self is to have a peace and have human right as a person. To be able to developed in the way and to get peace I'm very interesting in this as I am studying at school with my teacher, in my opinion, I think peace is also essentials learn what is happening in the other country and why some countries are war in order to realize how peace is important.

Human rights are rights of all human beings but some dictionaries define the word right as "a privilege," when used in the context of "human rights," we are talking about something more basic. Every person is entitled to certain rights, simply by being human.
