

PEACE AND HUMAN RIGHTS

Elvie T. Soriano
Nursing Department
Universidad de Zamboanga-Ipil
Zamboanga Sibugay Province, Philippines

Peace is all we need in ourselves, to our fellowmen, our beloved country and most especially in our world. But how can we attain peace if we ourselves don't know what the real meaning of peace is and where we can find that so called peace.

As human being, we can have peace if we wanted it. However, it should start from within us by being nice to everyone and by respecting the right of others that includes their limitations and shortcomings for no one in this world was made perfect.

When we are talking of the word peace we simply talk about unity in all aspects of our lives. But how can one find peace? Can it really be attained along with human rights.

For my own understanding, human rights is our obligation and responsibility to follow and respect all laws covered with human rights. Human right is the equivalent of having peace.

I don't think that peace will be happening with harmonious living if there are lots of misunderstanding and conflicts among individuals.

Our government I hope is following the law of transparency where we will know what is happening in our government inside and outside of it as people of this country. For us non politics people, we wanted and, we always wanted to know what is really happening we must need to know must be broadcasted and people must be informed about it. But why is it there politicians who are trying to lie in front of their fellowmen they are against to the transparency of our government just to save their self from being shame. Is there any reason why they do not let transparency in our government? There some politicians who are selfish enough, they always thinking of their self, they do not want all of us know what is happening in our nation. In this case, our right is abused.

It's really hard to be soft as cotton but we must do sometimes to let anger subside. This is a huge challenge but peace helps in developing our moral values. Every big achievements or crisis of a certain area is start in minor achievements and crisis. Managing your anger is a minor achievement but a big one for others.

Peace must start at the smallest unit of the society- the family. If we want peace, we must know human rights and compassion at once. And if peace starts in the family, this will propagate to the community.