

PEACE AND HUMAN RIGHTS

Prince Reigner Egipto
Computer Engineering Department
Universidad de Zamboanga-Ipil
Zamboanga Sibugay Province, Philippines

Human Rights accordingly is the most abused term because it is a term designed to defend our freedom but it can destroy it as well. Human Rights, however, intends to establish orderliness and protection of human against abuses and discriminations, such that, a nation may be in peace. Sad to note, that many politician and political parties tend to make use of Human Rights to their own advantage and convenience, driven by their selfish motives.

Struggles and sufferings is the road to attaining peace. It is the victory in this turmoil that one can mark peace. That's why the Filipinos start to think that this goal is becoming more of a dream, a dream that seem unattainable. As you can see, even in our current situation, the Filipinos are becoming more and more hopeless of being able to attain this national peace. Even though there are numerous attempts to attain this, they all remain useless. Instead of Filipinos becoming one, they began parting their own ways. They even start fighting with each other, or even kill each other, which is not a Filipino must do to his own count.