

PEACE AND HUMAN RIGHTS

Richard L. Maquiling
Computer Science Department
Universidad de Zamboanga-Ipil
Zamboanga Sibugay Province, Philippines

I, myself can't express what peace really. But according to the Bible There are two types of peace." One type of peace is between "God and man" (Luke 2: 13. 14) and the other type of peace is between "man and man" T (Matthew 10:32-34, Joh11 14:27) wills both lay me down in peace, and sleep: for thou. Lord only makes me dwell in safety. (Psalm 4:8) Jesus gave us His peace so we can be joined to Him in order to have man to man peace.

On that verse, it shows that we need first communicate with our almighty God in order to have this Peace that we've been longing for. Then second a peace with our fellow human being. As what God says come to me and leans on me so I can give you rest and have peace.

When we hear the word rights, what is the first thing that comes into our minds? The word right is a homonym. It can be moving towards the opposite direction of left. It may also be doing what is good or in other words to justify good. Now applying justice to the word right creates a whole new meaning. It's very meaningful for it alone gives justice to an individual. It alone gives a person its individuality or rather making a person which is.....a human.

Human rights probably existed as old as humans walk their feet upon the sailor the Earth. People fought for their rights and freedom continuously in everything that we watch and hear. Everyone has their own share of memories or stories wherein they want to break free from someone or somebody or something of their own freedom.

We can change the world by doing it first within ourselves. But definitely we can't change it because everyone of us has different perception in life. I may not able to change but T can be able to share peace in this world. Human rights can adopt peace if we do it in a good ways and nor taking it for granted because of that Human Rights.