

PEACE AND HUMAN RIGHTS

Ryan A. Belandres
Computer Engineering Department
Universidad de Zamboanga-Ipil
Zamboanga Sibugay Province, Philippines

After a millennium of conflict and war, we must need the freedom of peace, every certain person has the right to live in this world, and do what is right and not the wrong values or characteristics. We must learned the important of being nice to others, not only for those people we loved but also to other people surrounds us with in our society or even in other nation to achieve the freedom and peace in one another. For me "peace" describes a society or a relationship that is in harmony and no conflict. Peace is often referred to as the absence of hostility or the existence of healthy or newly healed interpersonal or international relationships, state in matters of social or economic welfare, the acknowledgment equality and fairness in political relationships. Peace also to me is a word that gives me a very wonderful meaning, not only because it refers to the unity of oneself but also to determine the importance of loving someone.

The laws on Human Rights tells and explains as how people respect other feelings and rights. We is a individual person, we must loved all the people around us, even though they are not part of our life, we must respect them for what they are, and also we must communicate them, even though they have different religion and beliefs, traditions and faith we must respect their rights as a person. Also all people have the right to live and have the right or freedom to choose. And also misunderstanding human rights is what of an individual person that must be prohibited.