

PEACE AND HUMAN RIGHTS

Shalene S. Cielo

AB Broadcasting Department

Universidad de Zamboanga-Ipil

Zamboanga Sibugay Province, Philippines

Peace is everyone's concern in the society not just internationally but globally. Peace is also a need of our body, mind and spirit. Is it difficult to do? I do believe it's not. But why do other people don't know how to make peace? One way of attaining peace is through respect of human rights. Human rights civil, political, natural or other rights serving a particular purpose in a particular organization; without understanding such and respecting each other's right, peace and orderliness is not possible. A lot of people died and suffered because of war and all of us are hoping and aiming for peace, for the sake of the children.

Peace matter is very important because it is related to the very survival of mankind as social beings. However, peace is not given an ample attention. It is the issues of war that is given priority. Concern agencies give less consideration to the prevention of war and that is promulgation of peace.

We should always respect the rights of one another in order for us to achieve and obtain peace. We should find peace within us so that we can all live peacefully and happily.