Having peace is a great feeling. If we don't have a peace in our self we cannot share to our fellow human being and in our country. It seems to be hopeless to have a peace, but don't be pessimistic, we can do it but we will start from our self. By doing this we can reach our goal. Forget the problems and face the challenge. It must be ridiculous to think but it is the truth. Ignore all the thing that you've think that can make you down. Just do what you can and be happy. If you can do that, the next step is you must bring peace in your fellow Filipino people. All the people that you hate, I think it's the time to forgive them, and be the role model as a peace maker. Don't bother if there are someone will bully you, just don't mind them because they cannot help you. If all of that are done then you have the power to make peace in our country and to be good peace maker.

"Human Right", when we hear this word we might be wondering and questioning, if this is existing? Even we live in the nation of democracy where there is a freedom to say and to do the higher position can command and can break the rule of our land and can do illegal thing if they want, And we, as a simple person cannot do that because we will follow the step by step requirement and we cannot easily do that because it is illegal. And if we do that we will be in prison. Why they have the confident to do that? Is this can bring us in peace and make our human rights strong? This is some of the question that can keep people's mind confuse. All of us are aiming that they will treat us equal and who can hear and can give our needs. Peace and human rights, to have this are one that we've aiming before and until now. I hope that we have the potential and knowledge to do the thing that can make us peace.

"Peace" and "Human Right" or freedom and love. We know how much we treasure our human rights and how we wish to have a peace. And if we have this, the peace and order are there. And if this gone, I can't imagine what will happen to our surrounding, to our country and even to our self.

Today we want to live in peace and have an equal treatment. And those country whose fighting with other place. So therefore, if people would just respect the human rights, we could avoid meeting the abusive people and we can have a peaceful country. Go for your peace and human rights.
