Every one of us as a human being is having rights. Rights in everything we have in the world. But sometime it sad to know that those people that belong in real family or in royal family has a bigger rights than other. And sometime specially poor have been abuse. Although all of us have rights but other doesn't know their real rights cause sometime only educated people know the real right and sometimes even they know their right but because of money it won't work, they are still abused.

In this opinion, hopefully all people can implement their rights other they are rich or cause we are still de same that is having rights
