

Inner peace to achieve world peace

Our country depends on knowledgeable and thoughtful students—the next generation of leaders—to build peace with freedom and justice among nations and peoples. To be able to build a world where the people are united, fair, free and feel secured of their self.

The leader should set as a good example to its countrymen to stop over using of his power as the head. All the leaders must unite so that its people will follow. As what is happening nowadays in Middle East and other country. The people are struggling because of the thought they were fighting is right. All of us is longing for a place where there is peace. But, how can we have it, if most of us don't have our inner peace. For us to have a world of peace, we should always start it within ourselves. We need to possess some of the behavior to understand other people these are respecting other people, which includes respecting their nature and culture too. The popular belief says if you respect others, others will respect you back. Being patient and understanding every situation in life are the main aspects we should consider to develop maturity in our behavior. This maturity will definitely bring self-respect and will make us value other individuals too. Like what is happening to the other country around the world. The people are fighting to gain respect. If the people give it, for sure there are no wars between countries.

The people must also learn not to be aggressive like to keep the attitude of becoming calm and peaceful helps, we people should maintain that composure which turns our decision making into extremely non-aggressive. It is crystal clear that harsh speech and insulting words always bring quarrels and conflicts. To reduce such conditions, people should avoid anger and hatred towards other religions, cultures, civilizations, states and countries.

Everybody should mix up with the world, but at the same time, it is vital not to interfere into others' work, cultural habits, religious matters, properties and daily life to avoid conflict and conversation. But, it does not mean that we should not help others in their difficulties and keep ourselves tied to our environment.

However, we should always possess the attitude of being equal to other people. This is the most important thing to understand. Being polite and behaving well with others never hurts considering everyone is equal. God is one and all religions preach the same. Above all it is necessary to first have peace inside ourselves and at home. This will naturally allow us to be serene and peaceful in the outside world too. Peace is something everyone wants, but no one exactly knows how to achieve it.

Leaders of different nations must possess this behavior to be able to be a good leader. That is to be a good leader is to be a good follower also. And his countrymen will follow and do the same way of being fair, in favor of justice, freedom and equality, and to start to respect other, not to over used power and not to oppress others. And in that way we will be able to achieve the so called inner peace and will lead us to world peace.
