

Peace and Humanity

By: Joan M. Posadas

School of Allied Medicine
Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Philippines

Peace state of clam and quiet, absence of war or strife. Peace is rare commodity in today's world. This is evident by the dissatisfaction or worries of individuals and through a lack of proper understanding between people of different nations and communities. The process of peace building starts from within the heart of each individual, when it is shared with other groups and cultures, it can lead to peace. Peace must begin with each one of us we must have understanding, friendship and cooperation among people.

Human rights it is important for people to have an integral understanding of human rights and to reject all forms of perception and discrimination based on beliefs, race, ethnicity, gender and social class. They should be encouraged to respect the dignity of all especially the weak and powerless. Each one of us has a freedom to decide for their future life.

These are some examples of Human rights issues

- Extralegal killings
- Arbitrary Arrest and Illegal Detection
- Torture
- Disappearance and Abduction
- Harassment
- Trafficking in persons
- Migration and Migrant workers