

SAVING MOTHER EARTH

By: Inna Jani

School of Allied Medicine
Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Philippines

In our daily life, we often hear more bad news about our mother earth. Some of the reports says that our wildlife and forest are disappearing at an alarming rate, it also says how polluted our air, water and soil became, and how quickly earth is losing its protective shield and warming up.

We human being is the one who should be blame for the destruction of our earth. We always did some harmful activities that are not good to our environment such as illegal logging, dumping hazardous wastes, burning of toxic chemicals, and many others. We human being did not value our mother earth, instead of giving important to it, we misuse and abuse our environment. And now, all the harmful things we did to our environment came back to us, and look!!! We are suffering for that mistake that we did to our environment. What can we do in order to face this widespread gloom?

Wise management of hazardous household wastes, planting trees, throwing garbage's in proper place, and recycling , reducing and reusing of materials are ways of taking action to save our mother earth. Our mother earth is very important. Earth is the only planet in the universe where we can live in. We may not be here in this world without our mother earth.

There is a real threat if we do not care about environmental issues and it is good to know that some people are doing their part in saving our mother earth. We should take our part in saving our mother earth in our own way. We should take good care our mother earth the way we take care of us. Let's not destroy our mother earth. Let's do our part in saving our mother earth. Let's take an action to save our mother earth before it's too late.