If there is one thing in this world that most of us would want to have, definitely its world peace, simply because it can. Change the way of our living. Having world peace means, we live but lives with security and not having a problem to any terrorist act. People will be able there to live comfortable in any places in the world, without worrying about their safety when it comes to terrorist.

Unfortunately, I think it's so hard for us to have this world peace, because a lot of people are having problems with their economic status, like poverty. People engaged in terrorism because of unequal places they have in their society. If only we can be all equal, there's no need for people to engage to such bad thing.

Well I do believe that wishes come true. This is a wish for all of us. I wish for world peace.
