We have our own experienced on human rights violations; I would like to share a story of a marriage. Once there was a husband and a faithful wife. The wife serves her husband from preparing the food, the clothes to wear, taking care of their child. The marriage is 30 years old, not all couple can reach those years but they do. They have only one daughter. No one expect that the husband has a live in partner, the time her daughter checked the cellphone of her father, she caught that her father has another woman. As a daughter she told her mother of what she discovered. The wife then decided to separate and filed a case to her husband. The woman of the husband also didn't know that the guy is married, in that she also filed a case. It is unfair for both wife and the mistress for they don't know that the guy they loved fooled them.
