How wonderful world would be if everything we need and want is just hand away. Life would be so easy with high technology we have nowadays. And as time goes by more things are invented for human. But looking back our life, It was so simple and peaceful. Our world offers us what we need for from food, shelter and clothes. As human is known we will never be contented of what we have. Our mother earth is always there for us however with too much eagerness of man to build new thing we tend to forget how our mother earth is.

Our mother earth is neither selfish nor arrogant of what she can offer to humans. But because of great powers, knowledge and capabilities that we have, we tend to over use them. Our eyes are not close to see what is happening around us today. The problems of our society in our environment are: air pollution and water pollution, deforestation, global warning, EL NINO and LA NINA. So disappointing that people suffer because of us still. If we can build discipline in us, maybe we can avoid disaster and troubles that we encounter, then less people will be suffering from floods, drought, soil erosion, landslides and deforestation.
