I have known that the earth is the most important for humans because the earth is the only planet that can give or sustain life for living things. Human can only breathe of earth not in other planet because earth is the planet that is alive. Environment is a surrounding atmosphere or condition for existence, environment is also essential natural process or an outcome of occurrence, and environment has two types. One is negative, the other is positive.

While I believe the global warming thing is affair, that doesn't mean we should not take care of the earth, we do live here and dumping trash in our home pretty dump to do live. We can help by picking garbage, and recycle, and disposing of chemicals and oils properly and conserving energy. All of these are equally important to help keeping from killing more of the earth.

When God created the earth, he made sure that living and non-living things world contribute to the welfare of each other. Thus, we see a symbolic relationship among organism. The natural flow of rivers was diverted to make way developmental project. Mountains were mined and flattened for minerals which can earn of millions dollar for country.

Every year the human population on earth are growing exponentially. Today our survival is still in danger and again population plays a major role, however, this time around we need to control, and protect our mother earth.
