

“Law Abiding Citizen, Towards Peace Promoting Individual”

By: Lea Jean S. Sabijon, BS in Pharmacy
School of Allied Medicine (SAM)
Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Philippines

It was once quoted in the bible, “Her ways are pleasant ways, and all her paths are peace”. This quote would inculcate something into one’s mind that peace was just a part of man’s control. It is how every individual desire to an effective act as an efficient citizen in such community. It could also be how eager a certain individual urge for a harmonious relationship, wherein everyone was united for the welfare in the community.

Since people were the main issue in promoting peace, it is with them that the certain relevant thing called peace revolves. Being a law abiding citizen would be a greater aspect in promoting peace among mankind. Following traffic rules, listening to the law enforcers, avoiding felony or delinquency and not doing offense against people or property would be an effective idea in promoting peace. With those things mentioned, a certain place will have a smooth sailing relationship among every inhabitance living in it. There will be fewer vices, less accidents, and less chaos that would eventually result to a progressive community. So, peace basically starts with one’s own self. It is how people positively respond to every happening in the everyday life and unify among others and how they manage to control their selves in the possible things that would emerge in the following days.

Promoting peace could be possibly done through the efforts of everybody not the sacrifices of one. Everyone must be a peace promoting individual to build a better nation and establish good relationships to others.