How can we compare ourselves from our forefathers?

How can we perceive of what used to be before now?

We sought for a better lifestyle, better livelihood, and better.

Life, in return, little did we know we risked someone else's. Due to this, what have rooted was greed, ignorance, and conflict, leading to the worst, Chaos. We may not see this chaos, but it is happening as we are living every day. This had caused war of nations, war of religions, and war between people. This doesn't stop even when affecting others that aren't involved at all. Lives lost, smiles frowned, and future for better living became future for the worst.

This cannot be undone. But this can be prevented and can be cured, like a medicine healing a wound. It can all start from within us by having ourselves enlighten, then spreading it to our community, by means of forgiving ourselves and the rest, And understanding each other, that we can help each other in the end. This is a win-win method that we can all benefit from.

So why do this? Isn't it an obvious reason that we want to live life better? We want to have a rich community with smiles and serene minds. We do not want to do what the previous people did before. We do not want to lose lives and be as corrupted as those who were.

Succeeding for peace can never be impossible, but it can never be easy though. For starters, we need communication, communication to within us and communication to one another, and then we can understand each other. But it doesn't end there. We have to do something about it and it's not by ignoring it. We can render our time helping. It can be simple, but not that easy. We can start by community service, a help for the community, then we can develop that into something worldwide. Something that can help the other in need.
