Education is not a privilege, it is a right. A privilege is an advantage or source of pleasure granted to a person, and it can be taken away. A right is something you are born with, and you will die with it. Education cannot be taken away by anyone or anything, which is why education is a right.

The right to vote is not a sanction to deprive other individuals of their freedom. Rather, because a free society requires a certain type of government. It is a means of stalling the officials who will safeguard the individual's rights of each citizen.
