Every human being has its own rights. Human rights it is the privilege of all human rights that should be respected. The life of every person is worth living if human right is being practice.

Human rights is like a special jewelry that cannot be though or be paid by any amount of money. In cleaning with individuals human rights should be observe correctly. No matter how poor, ugly or ever how monster that certain and respected. When the person is being born in this mother earth, human rights is always there days goes by years passes by, even that person dies, human rights is always there. In order to regain respects, we always need to observe the rights of other's isn't it?
