As a person we should respect the people around us like my friends, classmates, teachers and especially our parents, family and other people whom we do not know. All of us have the right in this world. We do not have the right to put people down because every one of us have the skill to prove something. As I know here in our place some of the rich families I observed look down and criticize those who are poor. They use their money as a power to do things. An example is a worker in a farm and a housekeeper.

I can say that we really need to change the behavior of the people here. We need to be fair and understand one another particularly in times of sorrow and those who are in need of help.
