World peace has been an issue around the world for a very long time. It has been many nations and organizations goal but still everyone finds it hard to achieve; why? It is because many leaders of every nation is still in great obsession of the love of power and that is why reality over the other nation is still rampant now a days.

Peace in our world is still possible if each one of us will seriously serve for the goodness of many. It is attainable if the power of love world eradicate the love of power of power by doing what is best for all.
