World Peace? This sounds very common in our ears yet until now it is not attained. This also became one of the most used general answers in many beauty pageant competitions and has not been erased in the proposals of different presidents. Many aim to experience what we call world peace. But why is it until today it is not realized?

Well, many questions are on our minds but what I can say is the root towards achieving world peace lies within us. I mean all of us; we should work in achieving this thing because if others want it, but is not working to achieve it, then it is useless.

We should start achieving peace even in our simple way, in our own ways. It should start from our self, being at peace, gaining peace; in our mind and in our hearts for if we possess peace within us, we could live a peaceful place and harmonious environment.
