Human rights are important to us because every individual person has their respective rights in terms of education, health and many more. But do we consider ending one's life a human right? Maybe others say yes and some says no. people living in democratic country maybe we are free unless you say something bad to others. We must be thankful because we our existence is very powerful right obtained by a person. We should respect the human rights of a person so that we can avoid arguments and achieve peace of mind.
