Our planet is in great danger. For the last one hundred or so years, the people have wasted and misused the natural resources of the earth. Several plans have been developed to stop the abuse. Environmental problems have become so complex. Problems like oil spills, hazardous waste, lose of rain forest and endangered species, acid rain, deterioration of the ozone layer are out of control. However, man can prevent improper waste disposal through recycling. Hazardous items must be disposed of properly and compost pits must be made available for every home.
