Our right to live is somewhat termed as our human rights. The freewill to practice one's right in our own land. Our ancestors during the Spaniards leadership never did enjoy such rights. Not after the time of Rizal when he started to voice out the sufferings of our countryman.

Filipinos are slaves as what they call us. When a man reaches the age of 18, they will be forced to work under the Polo government or "Forced Labor". Women should stay at home and not allowed to work for a living, but nowadays equality of rights are being observed. There's no discrimination between a man and a woman. Education is not an opportunity for the poor people. Jose Rizal contributed a lot to what we call as our rights. He served as an eye opener for everyone to voice out each and every opinion we have for a certain thing. He shout out every little thing he saw which in inhuman for him. He wrote two books that states the injustice treatment of the Spaniards to our fellowmen.

Until now, these rights are being observed by the majority but some are still ignorant because they are unable to execute such rights due to lack of education and poverty. Therefore, discrimination and injustice still exist.
