My viewpoint in Human Rights is that, we don't have peace in ourselves especially the person who indulge himself in killing. In fact peace is the only way for us citizens of this country to be united. We should first become skilled at understanding each and every one of us, our hatreds and sensitivity and learn how to overcome this undertaking. Even though we are having different religions, ideas and various perspectives about things around us, we should think first on the outcome of our doings. It may have advantage or disadvantages on our society. The government should work hand-in-hand with its people as well as the church to have a peaceful and united nation.
